ATMOSPHERE IN A RAILWAY COMPARTMENT

A train is the easiest, cheapest and safest mode of traveling for us. Second class journey in itself is a world of its own since one can come across different types of passengers in the compartment. The atmosphere in the compartment varies from situation to situation. Where it is packed to suffocation, the atmosphere becomes tense, congested and noisy. Those who are occupying seats are never in a mood to accommodate their travelers standing by their side. They even lose the sympathy to provide seats to the ladies or the old people. When the train is in motion, the atmosphere becomes somewhat related. In the compartment, one can very often come across with the petty shopkeepers, fruit sellers, and the vendors. People on long journey purchase items from them while the local passengers go on talking gossips or playing cards. Some can be seen singing and enjoyed in a group. It is an atmosphere of fun and frolic. Even one can be amidst in a lot of chaos, confusion, and humdrum. When the train is about to approach near a station, there is a scene of activity and excitement in the compartment. People get done while others board the train at different stations.
