Essay on a visit to a museum in 200 to 250 words

A museum is a place where old relics are kept for public show. A visit to a museum adds much to our knowledge of the past. Yesterday, I had a chance to visit a museum in New Delhi. I went there with my friend. It was a huge building divided into various sections. Each section had different exhibits.

We went to the museum. First of all, we saw our own galaxy of stars. There were stars painted on the dome ceiling. It was a very good scene. It was felt that we were actually in the galaxy of stars. After that, we saw another section. This section contained weapons of the olden times. There were bows, arrows, swords, daggers, helmets, and spikes. The things were arranged to show the battle scenes.

The adjacent room had the household goods of ancient times. These things were dug out from the historical sites. The domestic life of the ancient people was at display. One could see pots, pans, silver ornaments, musical instruments, clothes, and many other things.

There were many Indian made things. These have been made by Indian scientists. Solar cookers, solar light system, models of dams and hydroelectric projects were being displayed. After seeing them one can estimate how Indians had made progress after Independence. Now we were tired. We returned to our home in the late evening after enjoying the day.
