

Essay on Teachers

Teachers are a special blessing from God to us. They are the ones who make the world a better place by building a wonderful nation. The teacher teaches us that a pen is worth more than a sword. They are highly respected in society as they raise the standard of living of the people. They are like the social structures that educate people and make them better people. In addition, teachers have a more significant impact on the community and the health of their students. And they are essential in the life of a parent as parents expect a lot from teachers for their children. However, as in all fields, there are good and bad teachers. Although there are not many bad teachers, yet the numbers are essential.

A good teacher has qualities that a bad teacher does not have. After identifying the qualities of a qualified teacher, we can work on improving the quality of teaching. Good Teacher, A good teacher, is not hard to find, but you should know where to look. Good teachers are well-prepared for their educational goals. They adjust their daily action plan to ensure maximum productivity. Teachers have a lot of knowledge about everything, especially in the subject they are focusing on. A good teacher expands their knowledge and continues to provide positive feedback to their students. Similarly, a good teacher is like a friend who helps us with all our problems. A good teacher makes their learning process unique and not the usual one. Students will be able to learn the material more effectively as a result of this. In other words, a good teacher makes sure that students read well and get good grades.

Most importantly, a good teacher not only focuses on our academic performance but our overall development. Only then can a student genuinely grow. Therefore, good teachers will understand their students' problems and try to deal with them accordingly. They give students the impression that they will always have someone to chat to if they cannot do so at home or with their friends. The Impact of Teachers on Student Health Growing up, our parents and teachers were the first to significantly impact our lives. In fact, at a young age, students have more confidence in their teachers and more in obedience to their teachers than their parents do. This shows the importance and impact of the teacher.

As we grew up and went to college, the teachers became our friends. Some even set our example. They encouraged us to do great things in life. We learn how to make sacrifices for our teachers. Teachers unknowingly also teach lessons that are very important to the student. For example, when a student gets injured, the teacher rushes them to the hospital for first aid. This makes the student feel secure and know that the teacher is playing the role of parent at school. In other words, the teacher does not simply stick to the part of the teacher. They adapt to different positions where necessary. When we are sad, they become our friends; they care about us as our parents when we are hurt. Therefore, we see how a teacher affects a student's life and shapes it.
